Strasbourg, 1 April 2009

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Mr Valerio MAIONE undertook a traineeship in the Criminal Law Division, Directorate of Standard-Setting, between 11 January and 3 April 2009.

Mr Maione was actively involved in the preparatory work carried out by the Council of Europe for the meeting of the Committee of Experts on the Operation of European Convention in Criminal Matters (PC-OC). He participated in internal meetings relating to the organisation of the meeting, and contributed, in particular, to the finalisation of documents of the meeting.

Mr Maione carried out research focussing mainly on the work of the Council of Europe in the framework of the Conventions on Extradition, Mutual Legal Assistance, Cybercrime, Transfer of Sentenced Persons, Terrorism. He worked specifically on the normative aspect, particularly he examined the position of the 47 Council of Europe member States with regard to this very specific matter.

Mr Maione took part in various other activities of the Division relating to development of international cooperation in criminal matters and participated in the meetings of the Committees on Crime Problems and on the Cybercrime Convention.

Mr Maione carried out the tasks assigned to him in a fully satisfactory manner. His ability to work in three languages (Italian, English and French) was useful, and his professional attitude and pleasant disposition were very much appreciated in the Division and we can recommend him wholeheartedly for any further tasks that he may wish to pursue.

To Whom it may concern:

December 16th 2009

Mr Valerio Maione worked as trainee at the Italian Embassy in Beijing from September to December 2009. As Head of Human Resources I have been in a position to know him and see him working. Mr Maione worked on various projects at the diplomatic Chancery of the Embassy of Italy concerning China's domestic affairs and he gave his personal contributions to various papers on these issues.

Mr Maione did an excellent job and became an asset to the Embassy during his training period. He proved to be highly skilled in both written and oral communication, was extremely organized, could work independently and was able to follow through to ensure timely delivery of any assignment. He brought energy, enthusiasm, and commitment to all of his activities.

For all these reasons, I would highly recommend him for any endeavor he chooses to pursue; his performance at the Embassy of Italy in Beijing proves that he can be a valuable asset to any institution or company.

Yours sincerely,

Marco della Seta
