Link to AP/NPAA/SAA

The Accession Partnership (AP) outlines a series of priorities to be addressed in the area of civil society. The AP stresses the importance of ensuring transparency in the administration, in particular in the decision-making process, and calls for further promoting active participation by civil society in the decision making processes.

The National Programme for Adoption of the Acquis (NPAA) identifies a series of measures, on short and medium term, to be taken as regards the political, economic and policy criteria for membership of the European Union and is one of the key documents of the Government of the Beneficiary country that serves as instrument of reforms coordination in the European integration process. The NPAA is revised every year, taking into account the European Commission Progress Reports and possible updates of the EU acquis. With regard to civil society, NPAA plans setting up and advisory council on cooperation with civil society and further inclusion of civil society in the decision-making process.

¹ As per Financing Agreement signed between the Government of the Beneficiary Country and the European Commission concerning National Programme for Component 1 for 2013 under the Instrument for Pre-accession Assistance, signed on 19 December 2014.

The project will contribute towards the implementation of the Stabilisation and Association Agreement (SAA) objective of “development of civic society and democratisation”.

Link to MIPD

The MIPD 2011-2013 identifies the overall objective of pre-accession assistance in supporting the country's efforts to comply with the accession criteria. In this respect, it clearly notes down the support for the country's preparation to meet the challenges of future EU membership, particularly through the targeted support in terms of adoption of the acquis, as well as the enhancing of the institutional and administrative capacity to transpose, implement and enforce Community standards.

3. Description of the project

3.1 Background and justification

Civil society has played a notable role in the history of the Beneficiary Country. The legal framework, based on the Constitution, consists primarily of the Law on Citizen Associations and Foundations. The first Law on Citizen Associations and Foundations was adopted in 1998 as a necessity emerging from the new democratic political system. The law defined civil society organisations as associations, based on values and interests, non-partisan, not-for-profit and not for business activities. This law did not regulate trade unions, chambers of commerce, political parties, churches and religious communities regulated under different regulations. Since April 2010 a new Law on Associations and Foundations has been in force. The most important changes introduced with the new Law include further liberalization and practice of the right for association, extended to legal entities, foreigners and minors. It also introduced a possibility for civil society organisations to perform directly economic activities; to obtain a status of public benefit organisation and to be entitled to perform public authorisations. Promoting the aim for closer cooperation with the civil society and encouraging their active involvement in the process of policy development, the Government established, in 2004, the Unit for Cooperation with Non-governmental organisations (NGOs). It operates within the Sector for Policy Analysis and Coordination in the General Secretariat of the Government. In 2007, the Government adopted a Strategy for Cooperation of the Government with the Civil Sector (2007-2011). For further strengthening of this cooperation, in June 2012 the Government adopted the new Strategy for Cooperation of the Government with the Civil Sector (2012-2017)². The primary aim of the Strategy is to promote, support and improve the partnership relations between the Government and the civil society (associations and foundations) through measures for strengthening the mutual cooperation. A Code of good practice for participation of Civil Society in the polycymaking process³ was adopted by the Government to improve the consultation process. A Code of good practice for financial support to citizen's association and foundations, Programme for financing programme activities of citizen's association and foundations for 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017 and Decision for criteria and procedures for allocation of resources for financing programme activities of citizen's association and foundations from the Budget were adopted by the Government to enable transparency and to define criteria and monitoring procedures of the financial assistance granted by the Government to CSOs. Regarding the funding of the civil society the national legislation prescribes the state budget as one of the source of funding of the CSOs. Presently, the Government finances citizen associations and foundations through several sources, allocated through the budget of the ministries and other governmental institutions. Additionally, the relevant projects under IPA National Programmes contribute to strengthening the capacity of the Unit for cooperation with NGOs and implementation of the Strategy for cooperation of the Government with the Civil Society but also to strengthening the capacities of the civil society and providing support to selected priority areas through grant schemes.

*DG Enlargement Guidelines for EU support to civil society in enlargement countries 2014-2020*⁴ contributes to the Guiding principles of civil society support in the enlargement region for the period 2014-2020.

The 2016 EU progress report stipulates that an empowered civil society is a crucial component of any democratic society and should be recognised and treated as such by state institutions. It recognises the need for better involving CSOs in policy-making, legislative process and in discussions resulting in concrete actions and that both government and non-governmental actors should cooperate more constructively.

In the priority area 5: Strengthened institutional framework and practices of cooperation of the Strategy for cooperation of the Government with Civil Society, the Government recognizes as priority the establishment of a consultative body for improving the cooperation, dialogue and fostering the development of the civil society. The process of setting up the Council for cooperation between the Government and Civil Society is underway (the Decision for establishment of the Council, setting up the structure, competencies and the procedure for nomination of the members, was adopted in May 2016 as a result of a wide consultation process with CSOs, including on-line consultation through the web site of the Unit for cooperation with NGOs of the General secretariat of the Government and public debates organized by the Unit, several platforms of CSOs and TACSO – Technical assistance for civil society organizations, project funded by the European Union. In June-July 2016 the selection process of civil society representatives in the Council was organized, but some 89 CSOs expressed concerns about the process for establishing the Council. The Decisions will be revised absorbing the recommendations by the civil society organizations concerned and reselecting process of the CSOs members will be relaunched in Autumn 2017.

The current Strategy for Cooperation of the Government with the Civil Sector is for the period 2012-2017. Therefore, General Secretariat of the Government will organise previously consultations with relevant ministries and other state administrative bodies as well as civil society to update the strategy priorities. The written opinion of the responsible institutions including the civil society will be used as situation analysis in the process of revision of the Strategy and preparation of the Action plan for the period 2018-2020.
